Executive Summary

The 2024 Civic Learning and Voter Engagement Plan for Madison College is written and submitted by Student Program Advisor, Scarlet Martino, who works in the Center for Student Life. At this time, the plan has been written to focus specifically on engaging the Madison College community, primarily students, outside of the classroom because this is within the scope of the mission of Student Life.

This plan sets out our goals, action steps, and strategies related to student voter engagement, education, and turnout. Voter engagement was a new initiative for Student Life when Madison College submitted our first Civic Learning and Voter Engagement Plan in 2020. Unfortunately, many of the initiatives and programs we included in our initial plan were unable to be carried out as planned, due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Every effort was made in 2020 to virtually engage students in voter registration, engagement, and civic learning but we are excited to have returned to in person activities since 2022.

The strategies in this action plan will be primarily conducted in the 2024-2025 academic year to achieve the short-term goals that are outlined. We will engage each of our 7 campuses (Truax, Goodman South, Commercial Avenue, Fort Atkinson, Portage, Reedsburg, Watertown) and our online students in our voter education and registration efforts for the 2024 Presidential Election. We will use the 2025-2026 academic year to make strides towards achieving our long-term goals.

Leadership

Madison College's Center for Student Life will facilitate civic learning, voter registration, and voter education programming leading up to the November 2024 elections. Student Program Advisor Scarlet Martino will be the primary person to implement the activities in this plan, with support from Student Life, students, and student groups. This plan will be shared with Executive Vice President of Student Affairs Dr. Tim Casper and Director of Student Life Ellie Rome for input and oversight. We hope to expand our working group to a coalition composed of members from across the campus community. Expanding our team will be a long-term goal for our institution. Currently, this work is done by Student Affairs professionals and does not include participation from faculty/instructors. We hope in future years to build and strengthen the involvement in this work from both the Student Affairs and Academic sides of the institution. Ideally, we will build a coalition that includes members from the executive team, the office of Culture and Climate, Deans and Faculty from each academic school, and we will ensure that various identities and backgrounds are represented on the team as well.

There are many reasons we are seeking to expand our working group one of which being the need for a succession plan. Currently, the majority of the work is planned and executed by one Student Program Advisor within Student Life. When there is turnover in that position, we do not have a continuity in the work. We hope to resolve this issue by creating a coalition of many members so that there will always be a continuity of our commitment to and execution of civic engagement on campus.

Our community partners include the Dane County League of Women Voters and the City of Madison Clerk's office. Volunteers with the Dane County League of Women Voters regularly come to campus to register voters during events, and the City of Madison has collaborated with the college to establish the Truax and Goodman South campuses as early voting sites. We also collaborate with external partners such as the ALL IN Campus Democracy Challenge team and our local representative from the Campus Vote Project.

In addition, this year we were able to obtain the funding for an hourly student employee to assist in our efforts on campus. The funding for this position comes from student fees. This student will serve as a non-partisan voting assistant and support the events and collaborations detailed in this plan.

This engagement plan will be the primary responsibility of the Center for Student Life at Madison College. This plan and the resources and documents related to voter engagement activities are saved in a shared digital space so that they are accessible to multiple staff and student leaders and available for future adaptation.

Commitment

Madison College's President, Dr. Jack Daniels III, is committed to supporting student voter engagement. Dr. Daniels demonstrated this commitment in the Fall of 2020 by creating specialized videos promoting Madison College's resources for student voters. He has also signed the Presidential Commitment to full student voter participation through the ALL IN Campus Democracy Challenge.

Since the Center for Student Life supports student involvement beyond the classroom, this action plan will focus on ongoing Madison College commitments to extracurricular civic learning and engagement. We recognize the opportunity to expand to curricular engagement opportunities in the future by building relationships with other departments at the College. However, at this time, we will be focusing on extracurricular programming through the Center for Student Life. The capacity of the staff advisor charged with carrying out this plan is limited, and they must focus on programming that aligns with department resources and goals related to extracurricular involvement. Our plan includes actions toward building a civic learning coalition at Madison College that holds potential for expanding to future cross-departmental collaboration.

Madison College has demonstrated its commitment to civic learning and democratic engagement by dedicating space and staff time to an on-campus early voting location during elections starting in 2019. The Intercultural Exchange, a student-centered space that welcomes and validates the diverse cultures of our student body, opened in 2017. Groups that use the Intercultural Exchange for meetings or programming must connect their activities to its core themes, one of which is civic engagement. Each year, the College commemorates National Constitution Day activities in accordance with federal requirements. The Center for Student Life implements Constitution Day activities and encourages students to learn more about the Constitution and how they can be civically active. Student Life has also continuously collaborated with the Dane County League of Women Voters and City of Madison Clerk's Office to host voter registration events for Madison College students since 2019.

Civic learning in the form of service to the community is supported by the Volunteer Center, a student organization. Their mission is to facilitate service-learning and volunteer opportunities that will further enhance the classroom educational experience and impact the community, creating an environment that cultivates student success. In recent years the student leaders of the Volunteer Center have begun expanding their programming to include advocacy, policy, and democratic learning.

Students can build civic engagement skills by getting involved in the governance of the college. Madison College has a Shared Governance model that promotes participation, partnership and a renewed commitment to excellence. There is a College Assembly that is charged with overseeing the entire Shared Governance system. Within this structure, there are eight councils that make recommendations on specific issues to the College Assembly. Each council includes a student representative. The Student Senate is another venue through which students can strengthen civic engagement. The Student Senate works collaboratively with fellow students and the Shared Governance model to create positive changes at Madison College. The Student Senate represents the interest of all students, promotes student and faculty understanding, participates in community affairs that concern students, and encourages students to become involved in educational and social activities at Madison College.

Of the current civic engagement opportunities offered by Madison College, most are focused on internal campus activities and the College's governance. The College could strengthen its commitment to extracurricular civic learning connected to local, county, state, and national issues and government. The Center for Student Life is demonstrating renewed commitment to civic engagement by allocating staff time and department resources to civic learning and voter education opportunities through the ALL IN Challenge.

Landscape

In November 2019, Madison College was awarded the Best In Class award from the ALL IN Challenge for having the highest student voter turnout of large two-year institutions participating in the Challenge in the 2018 midterm election year. The student voter rate for the 2018 midterm elections was 53.5%, which is 14.4% higher than the national average for students at colleges participating in the National Study of Learning, Voting, and Engagement (NSLVE). As part of the ALL IN Democracy Challenge, Madison College was also awarded the Highest Voter Registration for 2-year Institutions and Highest Voter Turnout for 2-year Institutions awards for 2020 in the Wisconsin Challenge. For the 2020 Presidential Election we earned a Bronze Level for the ALL IN Democracy Challenge for a voting rate of 54.4%.

Several new initiatives began at the College since 2019 related to voter engagement. First, the College became an In-Person Absentee Voting partner (also called "Early Voting") for all elections happening in the City of Madison, hosting early voting at two of the Madison campuses. In-Person Absentee Voting continued to happen on our campuses through the COVID-19 pandemic with extensive risk management strategies put in place to ensure Madison residents could safely vote. Our relationship became even stronger during the pandemic when the public school district decided, with student health and safety in mind, to opt out of their usual role in hosting election day voting in schools across the city. For Spring 2021, Madison College stepped up on election day to host our local election at the Goodman South Campus to help fill this need. This partnership with the City Clerk's Office continues to be critical for reaching our registration and turnout goals for 2024.

In addition to serving as an early voting location, Student Life has begun to host programs related to voting. Voter registration events will be held at the Truax and Goodman South Campuses during National Voter Education Week. We continue to invite volunteers from the Dane County League of Women Voters to help students register to vote, check their registration status, and learn about election resources. We will offer voter education for National Voter Registration Day in September 2024 using our TurboVote platform to help students register to vote, find what’s on their ballot, and know their polling location.

Our ongoing partnership with the League of Women Voters is crucial to our success going into 2024 for several reasons. First, the volunteers in this organization are highly knowledgeable and experienced in navigating the complicated voter identification laws in Wisconsin. They are helping us to not only register students to vote, but also make institutional changes that will simplify the registration process for students who need to show their proof of address via smart phones. We are also grateful for their partnership because of the number of volunteers they recruit for our registration events. There is limited staff capacity to host an engaging event and register students simultaneously, so having the League of Women Voters send volunteers is essential for these events.

Madison Area Technical College for the last academic year served 15,579 FTE students. Of those students 60% identified as White, 15% identified as Hispanic, 9% identified as Black, 7% identified as multi-racial, 6% identified as Asian, the remaining 3% were unknown. Compared to our voting rate from the 2020 Presidential Election cycle, we were below the national average across all races except for our American Indian/Alaskan Native students, who make up less than 1% of our total student body. Our lowest voting rate was amongst our Hispanic students. For the 2024 election we will use this data to inform our efforts on campus. We plan to work directly with our identity-based clubs that connect with these underrepresented groups. Specifically, we will work with La Raza Unida (LatinX student group), the Black Student Union, and the Asian American Student Association to attend meetings to discuss the importance of voter engagement and to provide resources for voter registration.

We are working to overcome several barriers that stand in our way toward accomplishing our goals. The student population of Madison College includes a large population of people under the age of 18 because we offer dual-enrollment early college programs with local high schools. We will need to be cognizant of their involvement in our community and need to find activities that they can participate in outside of voter registration and voting.

Another challenge that we face is that the College is spread across parts of 12 counties in southcentral Wisconsin, representing hundreds of municipalities. Each municipality’s clerk has the liberty to make certain decisions about administering elections and managing voter registrations for that municipality. For example, the City of Madison hosts In-Person Absentee polling at many locations across the city ahead of every election, but we do not know of any other municipalities in the district that have In-Person Absentee polling outside of the clerk’s office. This difference, along with those related to registration, make it challenging to be informed enough to assist all students to fully understand the registration and voting procedures for their municipality.

Madison College’s Election Engagement Assessment

This tool, developed by Civic Influencers (formerly known as Campus Election Engagement Project), allows us to assess where Madison College already has strong election engagement structures in place, and to identify where we can focus our efforts as we develop opportunities.

Campus Commitment	Yes or No?	Current Efforts & Opportunities to Grow
1. A coalition of faculty, staff, and students regularly meets to coordinate efforts and resources across campus to register, educate, and empower students to vote in local, state, and federal elections.	No	There is an opportunity to build a cross-departmental coalition to communicate and support student voter participation. This could include student leaders, faculty, and staff and should include Madison-area and regional campuses.
2. At least one staff or faculty member coordinates and tracks election engagement efforts across campus.	Yes	Scarlet Martino in the Center for Student Life has been charged with coordinating election engagement efforts.
3. Our campus has submitted the National Study of Learning, Voting, and Engagement (NSLVE) 2023-2033 Reauthorization Form to the Institute for Democracy and Higher Education.	Yes
4. The college calendar incorporates key election dates, including but not limited to, registration deadlines,	Yes	We included election dates in the 2024-2025 student academic planner; we will work with the

primary and general election dates, early voting timelines, and absentee ballot deadlines.		Dining & Events department to include them on our online campus calendar; and we post relevant dates and deadlines on our student engagement platform, WolfPack Connect.
5. Our campus designates funds for students or staff to conduct nonpartisan voter registration and education efforts. This can include student government funds, dedicated staff time, or allocated FWS funds.	Yes	The Student Life Campus Center funds can support nominal supplies/food/resources needed for voter registration and civic learning efforts. Additionally, we have the funding to support 1 hourly student employee to assist with these efforts.
6. The President/Chancellor or another senior administrator uses campus-wide emails and social media to encourage students to vote and provide nonpartisan resources (e.g., polling place lookup).	Yes	The President has promoted voting in messages to the entire campus community and shared the goal of full voter participation of eligible students.

Student Voter Registration	Yes or No?	Current Efforts & Opportunities to Grow
1. Students are encouraged to register during orientation and provided with online or paper forms.	Yes	Voter registration information is included in the online WolfPack Welcome orientation. Printed voter registration information is distributed to all students attending the in-person WolfPack Welcome orientation. Madison College’s TurboVote site provides printed voter registration forms to any students who are not able to register online.
2. Voter registration is integrated with class registration and/or the online student portal.	No	We hope to integrate voter registration into new student requirements in the future, but this is a long-term goal as it will involve the help of many different stakeholders.
3. Voter registration forms are easily available for students as they get their student IDs.	No
4. Our campus uses online tools (e.g. Rock the Vote, TurboVote) to register students.	Yes	We use TurboVote and My Vote Wisconsin.
5. Campus-wide email is used to inform all students how to register to vote at their local address or request an absentee ballot during each semester in which a local, state, or federal election is held.	Yes	In 2020, this email was accompanied by a video from college president Dr. Daniels urging students to vote. We hope to replicate these efforts for the 2024 election.
6. Official campus social media accounts are used to encourage voter registration and to provide nonpartisan election information and resources.	Yes
7. At least one experiential or service-learning course exists to foster students’ political learning and culminates in a project that registers, educates, and/or empowers their fellow students to vote.	Unknown

Student Education	Yes or No?	Current Efforts & Opportunities to Grow
1. Other courses integrate election engagement in the curriculum and provide structured opportunities to volunteer with campaigns and interest groups of the students’ choosing, or with the school’s nonpartisan engagement team.	Unknown

2. Our campus hosts and publicizes watch parties for televised debates.	No
3. Nonpartisan candidate and issue guides are widely distributed and available for students.	Yes	The Center for Student Life will distribute nonpartisan candidate and issue guides created by the League of Women Voters during voter registration & voter education events throughout 2024.
4. Administrators and faculty regularly facilitate campus conversations on issues important to students to promote dialogue and cross-cultural understanding.	Yes	These conversations are led by student organizations or student clubs or facilitated by the Office of Equity, Inclusion, and Community Engagement.

Student Voter Mobilization	Yes or No?	Current Efforts & Opportunities to Grow
1. Our campus works with the local election authority to host an on-campus polling place for early and/or election day voting.	Yes	There are early voting sites for City of Madison residents at the Truax and Goodman South campuses. The Watertown campus is a voting site on election days.
2. Students have easy access to official documents (e.g., utility bill, letter confirming student status) to satisfy voter ID requirements if students IDs are insufficient.	Yes	Students can obtain a photo ID that meets Wisconsin Voter ID requirements from the Student Life office. Staff from the Center for Student Life will work with staff from Student Records & Data to evaluate options for easier access to documents verifying student status and address.
3. Our campus makes voting a community activity in multiple ways, such as having the school mascot promote voting, marching/strolling to the polls, and registering student athletes during games.	No
4. The President/Chancellor or another senior administrator uses campus-wide emails and social media to encourage students to vote and provide nonpartisan resources (e.g., polling place lookup).	Yes	The President has promoted voting in messages to the entire campus community and shared the goal of full participation of eligible students.

Goals

We have reviewed the NSLVE report with 2020 student voting data, to compare 2024 with the last Presidential Election year, and have set the following quantitative goals related to student voting in 2024:

- Increase the registered student voting rate to 100%, from 83.2% in 2020.
- Increase the overall student voting rate to 100%, from 54.4% in 2020.
- Increase the absentee voting rate to 45%, from 39% in 2020.
- Increase the voting rate amongst Hispanic students to 40%, from 36% in 2020.
- Increase the voting rate amongst Black students to 45%, from 41% in 2020.
- Increase the voting rate amongst Asian students to 45%, from 41% in 2020.

For long-term goals, we will strive to:

- Reach 100% student voter engagement.
- By 2026, create equal engagement across all 7 campuses and online students.
- By 2026, incorporate the civic action planning worksheet produced by Miami Dade College into our student engagement platform for students to earn leadership board points and track their engagement.

- By 2026, offer continuous programming during non-election years that focuses on civic learning and engagement and democratic learning. Offer at least 2 opportunities each semester to engage students in this learning in addition to our normal election cycle activities.
- By 2028, incorporate voter registration into the class registration and new student process by offering registration information to students at our advising and registration sessions and having someone to register students to vote at each of our orientation sessions.
- By 2028, create a physical and virtual space to foster healthy political discourse.
- By 2028, use NSLVE data to identify academic programs with low voting rates and connect with the deans and faculty of those areas to incorporate information from Ask Every Student into their curriculums.
- By 2028, encourage staff and faculty members to become election officials. We would like to have a pool of 10 officials that are employees of Madison College. Having more staff and faculty trained to register students will allow us to register students to vote at a wider variety of campus events including plays/musicals and athletic events.
- By 2028, Create a cross-functional coalition to broaden the awareness and ownership of election engagement outside of Student Life. This coalition will include members from the executive team, faculty/deans from each school, staff, and students. Additionally, we will make sure this coalition includes individuals from diverse backgrounds, age, race, disability status, and areas of study.

We will track data related to the number of events, students registered, event participation, and partnerships formed with others across the College.

Strategy

Strategy: Build institutional capacity for voter registration & education.

Strategy: Create spaces for civic learning and engagement for students who are ineligible to vote (international students, students under 18, students who are not citizens, students with felony convictions who have not yet completed their terms of sentence).

Tactic	Who is responsible for implementation?	Who is the intended audience?	Where & when will it occur?	Outcomes & Indicators
Share specific event information with departments who can connect with students who are ineligible to vote (Center for International Education, Early College programs). Customize event invitations to highlight ways that students can participate even if they are ineligible to vote.	Student Life staff	Students ineligible to vote	Throughout the 2024-2025 academic year.	# of opportunities offered at events
At each voter registration or voter education event, offer an intentional action step that is open to students not eligible to vote. Examples include: encouraging friends and family to vote, voting in Student Senate elections, engaging with student	Student Life staff	Students ineligible to vote	Throughout the 2024-2025 academic year.	# of opportunities offered at events groups or organizations on campus who encourage civic learning.

Reporting

At a minimum, this report will be shared internally with staff in Student Life and the Executive Vice President for Student Affairs and Institutional Effectiveness. These stakeholders may have feedback for us on the plan and will be considered active supporters as we act on this plan. The plan is publicly available on the ALL IN Challenge website. The plan will also be widely distributed among student services staff at Madison College.

Some components of this plan will be shared with the staff in the Marketing department at Madison College so that they can help us promote In-Person Absentee Voting and student voter registration efforts with local media. They can help us share what we are doing at the college leading up to the Presidential election in November, when there is sure to be significant media attention to voting.

We also plan to share parts of the plan with the internal communications staff at Madison College to increase awareness among staff about our voter education and registration events. Staff can be strong advocates for the work that we are doing and promote our programs with students who we may not otherwise reach. We will make the plan available to read in full by sharing the Madison College page on the ALL IN Challenge website.

Finally, having this action plan written opens the door for other opportunities that may come along. We may be able to use this plan to gain additional partners for the work we are doing and/or gain valuable resources related to voter education, registration, and turnout efforts. We will use our Voter Engagement SharePoint site to internally promote the contents and results of this action plan.

Evaluation

Evaluation of our efforts will be critical to improving our future programming and initiatives because we are creating a baseline for participation and effectiveness. We will focus on collecting participation data related to each of our strategies introduced above. We will also debrief each event and initiative to document changes we would make for future success.

The primary purpose for collecting data in 2024 will be to set a benchmark upon which to create future goals and to determine which interventions seem to move the needle toward achieving our voter registration and turnout goals. Since we were operating completely virtually during the 2020 election cycle, we did not have a chance to establish baseline data for participation in in-person and hybrid events. By collecting participation data, we will also contribute data to the overall Student Life participation goals reported to the Executive Vice President of Student Affairs & Institutional Effectiveness.

We will also continue to participate in the National Study of Learning, Voting, and Engagement, which will help us to compare overall student registration and voting numbers to previous years and give us insight on some of the specific student population voting rates compared to past elections. By looking at these data, we will be able to determine whether we met our goals and help us to set goals for future years.

We will work with our Institutional Research and Effectiveness unit to collect demographic information on our student body to compare to the NSLVE data. We will analyze data on how many international students we have at the college and how we are able to engage them in civic learning even if they are ineligible to vote. We will similarly collect information on how many students we have under the age of 18 and how we are able to engage them in events related to civic engagement and ensuring they are prepared to vote when they are voting eligible.

At a minimum, we will share the results of our evaluation with the Student Life staff and Executive Vice President of Student Affairs & Institutional Effectiveness, but we may also share and utilize it in different ways. It may help us to create partnerships both on and off campus and expand our resources and capacity for future efforts.

As our efforts become more established heading into the Presidential elections in 2024, we hope to have the capacity to carry out a more robust evaluation of voter education, registration, and turnout activities.
