

RowanVotes - ALL IN Campus Democracy Challenge 2020 Rowan University Action Plan

Executive Summary

The Rowan University ALL IN Campus Democracy Challenge Action Plan was developed through collaboration between Rowan University Administration, Rowan University Student Affairs, Chamberlain Student Center & Campus Activities, the Student Government Association, student leaders from the Rowan Republicans and the Rowan Democrats, the Faculty Senate, the Rowan Institute for Public Policy and Citizenship (RIPPAC) and the Department of Political Science and Economics. The action plan outlines the coordination efforts between these different organizations to make voter registration, education and participation a seamless and integrated part of the student experience at Rowan University. As we learn about our institution through data from the National Study of Learning, Voting and Engagement (NSLVE), we will update our plan to continue our successes and identify areas for improvement.

Working Group

Our working group consists of representatives from Rowan University Administration as well as leaders from the student body. In addition, the Rowan Institute for Public Policy and Citizenship, the Department of Political Science and Economics, Student Affairs and Chamberlain Student Center & Campus Activities as well as various centers on campus will be playing key roles in implementing initiatives that are planned by the group as a whole.

Current members of the group include:

Steve Weinstein, Executive Vice President for Policy and External Relationships/Partnerships
Rory McElewee, Ph.D. Vice President, Student Affairs
Bill Friend, Ph.D. President of the Faculty Senate
Drew Tinnin, ED.D. Associate Vice President, Student Life, and Interim Dean of Students

As we continue to develop this program we will be reaching out to various campus groups for their participation.

Commitment

Rowan University places engagement and student centeredness as central pillars of its core operational values¹. Increasing participation and civic engagement among the student body and the broader community is a critical goal for any 21st century research university. Politics and public policy are uniquely linked to student opportunities at Rowan. As a result, a more engaged campus will benefit the Rowan community as well as the state of New Jersey. A more engaged citizenry is the goal of any democratic nation. One way for Rowan to increase civic engagement and participation is to join the All In Campus Democracy Challenge. The challenge requires universities to prioritize voter registration as well as promote and encourage participation in the electoral process. Below is our action plan for the year 2020.

Rowan University

Rowan University is ranked one of the top ten fastest growing doctoral universities in the country². Rowan's student population is almost 20,000, with most students attending Rowan's Glassboro campus. In addition to the Glassboro, NJ campus, Rowan has a campus that serves undergraduates in Camden, NJ. The student body is diverse, with 32% coming from underrepresented groups. Rowan has seven colleges and five schools³. Rowan's influence in the South Jersey region is increasing as the university continues to grow.

This is Rowan's first year participating in the challenge and as such, we will be joining the NSLVE for the first time. This will allow us to set a baseline for future registration and mobilization goals as we continue this initiative. Rowan's student body are a mix of students who begin their college careers at Rowan and those who come to Rowan after attending one of the local community colleges. As such, students are entering Rowan at different stages of their academic careers. In addition, we have many students who are commuting to campus rather than residing here. According to U.S. News and World Report, 63% of Rowan students live on campus⁴. These data suggest that we will need to be prepared to register and mobilize students throughout the mid-Atlantic region. Luckily, the state of New Jersey now has a Vote By Mail option, which will allow students to easily vote regardless of their home address or residence.

According to U.S. News & World Report, 35 percent of Rowan's student population are first generation college students⁵. Research suggests that parental education is correlated with a propensity to vote⁶. First generation students are therefore less likely to participate in politics. However, the research also shows that holding constant these background variables, college education, that focuses specifically on civic engagement makes students more likely to participate⁷. Our approach to addressing Rowan University student participation will focus on best practices based on research. Because Rowan has a large number of students who experience barriers to participation, the ALL IN Challenge is needed and necessary.

Goals

As part of the Campus Democracy Challenge, Rowan University will promote democratic engagement through three pillars: Registration, Education, and Mobilization. In order to achieve the broader goal of increased participation and engagement, we have identified a number of action items that we will be implementing beginning in the Spring of 2020 through the 2020 federal elections and beyond (see Attachment A). In addition, Rowan will follow the evidence-based practices to improve participation and engagement from the Campus Election Engagement Project (CEEP). Our main goal for the first year of this challenge is to institutionalize opportunities for voter registration, education, and mobilization.

In addition, a number of students will receive 2-3 experiential learning credits to be campus wide leaders in organizing registration and mobilization efforts, as well as assisting in educational initiatives. Research shows that this type of experience creates the skills necessary for active political participation and civic engagement⁸. Further peer contact is a key way to get potential voters registered and increase their likelihood of participation. This is why we will encourage students to be at the center of this campaign by training student resident life leaders and creating a team of #RowanVotes leaders who will be present at events around campus.

Voter Registration

- Meeting students where they are. We will make an effort to have voter registration as an option for students during check in when they come to Rowan, either as a first year student or as a transfer student.
- Student clubs: Many student clubs and organizations already conduct voter registration efforts. Clubs are required to complete a certain number of service hours in order to receive funding from the Student Government Association. We already have representatives in our working group from the Student Government Association (SGA), the Rowan Democrats, and the Rowan Republicans. In addition, we will reach out to heads of the Greek Life organizations as well as other clubs. We will provide training to clubs who are interested in doing this, as well as create a system for clubs across campus to track voter registration.
- Resident Student Life: One of our goals is to train student life representatives including Resident Assistants to register people to vote and circulate relevant voter information.
- Commuter Student Life: Work with the Office of Volunteerism, Civic Engagement and Commuter Services on helping our commuter students register to vote and make a plan to vote.

- National Voter Registration Day Campus Wide Event (9/22/2019).

Education

- Voter and Civics Education: We plan to work with university partners including the Rowan Institute for Public Policy and Citizenship (RIPPAC), the Department of Political Science and Economics, Chamberlain Student Center & Campus Activities, and the Office of Community Engagement, Civic Volunteerism and Commuter Services to organize several events to highlight the importance of the election including teach-ins on gerrymandering, and elections. In particular, we have several events on campus surrounding Constitution Day as well as a spring kick off event teaching about the importance of primaries.
- Rowan University and in particular, the College of Humanities and Social Sciences is emphasizing experiential learning. We have several options for students who would like to get involved in the ALL IN Challenge through participating in voter registration, mobilization and supporting the educational initiatives. We have in place mechanisms where students can receive 2-3 credits for this type of experiential education. First, we offer a class entitled Social Movements and Political Activism, which is an experiential class. In the class, students will create a non-partisan #RowanVotes guide for students to be distributed at our events. Students can choose to participate in the ALL IN Challenge as part of this class. In addition, the College of Humanities and Social Science's Center for Professional Success provides ways for students to earn credit for volunteer experience and civic engagement.
- We will encourage college administrators and leaders to promote voter engagement through email reminders to register to vote and participate in the election. We will have those emails link back to a point person working on the ALL IN challenge who can help students who are experiencing problems with registration or figuring out where to vote.
- We will also use social media to field student questions about the elections from our local experts and to troubleshoot any problems students are encountering.

Mobilization

- In order to help students get to the polls on election day, or vote by mail, we will host a number of events to encourage participation. One such initiative will be having students post "why I will vote" in the Student Center on a large board in a central location.
- Another mobilization tactic will be to host a vote by mail event, where students can mail their ballots at the Post Office on campus and get an "I Voted #RowanVotes" sticker.
- Students will be encouraged to vote through email blasts and social media takeovers.
- Rowan University will host a Get Out the Vote concert or event through a national organization such as Rock the Vote or Headcount.org.

Self Assessment

The Campus Election Engagement Project (CEEP) has a tool for assessing which nonpartisan election engagement practices are being implemented on campus. We will use this to guide our approach. There are many practices that are already underway and some that can be implemented easily. We will use this tool to assess our progress as we implement and review the initiative. In particular, we will focus on several items that have been adopted from the CEEP self assessment.⁹ Below are a list of self-assessment items that were adapted from the CEEP that we will work on in the coming year(s):

- We will continue to build our coalition of faculty, staff and students.
- We will formalize and institutionalize processes for updating students about key dates and deadlines for voter registration and turnout. We will use the official calendars and email blasts, and official social media platforms for this purpose.
- We will work on creating resources for supporting the ALL IN initiative.
- We will create opportunities for students to register to vote as they begin to matriculate at Rowan.
- Rowan University is actively working to increase experiential learning opportunities on campus. We currently have one class that will use experiential education to “foster student’s political learning and culminates in a project that registers, educates and empowers their fellow students to vote.” (PS 07327 - Social Movements and Political Activism). This class will also create non-partisan voter guides for the Rowan Community.

Timeline, Budget, and Announcement

We have created a grid of our proposed events and initiatives by semester and month for the year 2020. This will serve as our working timeline. The grid is attached (Attachment A). We have also created a budget request (Attachment B) for this initiative, which will need resources in order for it to be successful. Finally, the initial announcement to the university is attached (Attachment C).

ALL IN Challenge / #RowanVotes
DRAFT Budget as of 12.10.19

Costs are educated estimates. With review and input from others, we certainly can amend this initial proposal.

ALL IN COORDINATOR

This person will be the primary coordinator for the ALL IN challenge from February 2020 through November 2020.

Though there will be several campus offices and organizations engaged in this effort, there needs to be someone to facilitate and coordinate these efforts, as well as handle action items that do not fall neatly into someone else's lap.

This person will:

- Help select and oversee the activities of the ALL IN Advocates (the #RowanVotes version of "Rowan Ambassadors") throughout the timeframe.
- Administer different aspects of the registration, education, and mobilization efforts that do not have someone else to take the lead. This could include:
 - training Rowan staff and student leaders (RAs and others) on procedures and rules for voter registration and casting ballots,
 - handling social media (email blasts with information and reminders, maintaining the website of information, etc.),
 - arranging for necessary marketing materials (working with University Communications on logo, ordering items from Print Center, etc., getting voter registration forms, VBM request forms from Division of Elections and County Clerks,
 - ordering food, photographer, entertainment, etc., as necessary, for events, and
 - serving as the point person for any student who has a question, etc.
- Collect public records of current voter registration data for Rowan students and then monitoring increases as the university goes through its Action Plan.

Assuming this is a NON-faculty/staff member, this person could be paid an hourly rate.

Feb 3 – Nov 13 20 hours/week 40 weeks $20/hour $ 16,000

A faculty member who takes on this role, may require 1-2 course releases, as well as some kind of remuneration over the summer.

Headline: "Want to register voters? Rowan enters national competition"

Rowan University will be joining a national competition to register, educate and mobilize voters. The ALL IN Campus Democracy Challenge is a nonpartisan nationwide effort to get colleges and universities to prioritize voter engagement and participation. Rowan is committed to an engaged student body and our goal in the challenge is to make civic engagement a core part of the Rowan experience. Participation in the challenge is a university-wide effort where students, faculty, staff and administration can participate and plan and host events. All are welcome and encouraged to engage in this effort and students who would like to participate can earn 2-3 credits for their work. The effort is being coordinated by the Department of Political Science and Economics, Rowan Institute for Public Policy and Citizenship, Chamberlain Student Center & Campus Activities, Student Affairs, the Student Government Association and the Rowan Republicans and the Rowan Democrats. If you would like to host an event, or get involved, please reach out to Kathy Javian at javian@rowan.edu.
