

University of Massachusetts Dartmouth
2020 Voter Engagement Action Plan

Created by Liz Anusauskas, Max Ciarlone, Jonathan Field, Deirdre Healy and Nate Roberts

Executive Summary

As the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth (UMass Dartmouth) continues to prioritize community service and civic engagement on campus, in an election year, our focus turns to increasing voter participation on campus. MassPIRG led previous voting engagement efforts on campus, but in an effort to increase voter participation, student leaders at UMass Dartmouth initiated the UMassD Votes Coalition with the help of the Leduc Center for Civic Engagement. The UMassD Votes Coalition intends to create a “culture of voting” on campus at every level, from students to administrators. We envision the “culture of voting” as one that creates an expectation for people on campus to fulfill their civic duties through voting and through helping others vote. This culture would also facilitate the connections between voting and creating change in the political and social issues that matter to students. We believe students that clearly understand why voting is important and the behavior’s relationship to change-making are more likely to vote than students who don’t make this connection.

The UMass Dartmouth 2020 Voter Engagement Action Plan lays out a path to increase student voting rates in the 2020 Presidential election and to institutionalize a plan to create a vibrant, sustainable culture of voting on campus. Key elements of the plan are: the formalization of the UMass Dartmouth Votes Coalition and participation in the All in Democracy Challenge and Ask Every Student Campaign. Key factors to the success of the plan include:

- endorsement of the action plan by UMass Dartmouth administration, most notably Chancellor Robert Johnson, Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs Shannon Finning, Provost Mohammad Karim, Student Government Association and Faculty Senate.
- focus on implementation of the tactics by the coalition leadership including the recruitment and launch of the Vote Captains project
- formalization and institutionalization of the UMassD Votes Coalition
- creation of a model Get Out the Vote (GOTV) Campaign for replication into the future.

The action plan described here is a grassroots effort created through the leadership of students Liz Anusauskas, Senior SGA President and Jonathan Fields, Junior MassPIRG Vice Chair / New Voters Project Coordinator, Deirdre Healy, Director at the Leduc Center for Civic Engagement, Max Ciarlone, MassPirg Organizer and recent UMass Dartmouth graduate Nate Roberts, in consultation with the UMass Dartmouth Votes Coalition. We consider this a working document that will be updated, edited and relied upon for guidance. Through continued public, transparent conversations about our action plan and National Study of Learning Voting and Engagement (NSLVE) we endeavor to earn gold in the All in Challenge.

Landscape

College students vote at the lowest rates of any demographic across the nation. In addition, they serve as the largest and most diverse group of unregistered voters. This happens for a myriad of reasons, chief among them are the barriers that students face when going to college, such as needing to re-register to vote or making plans to travel home on a school day. That is why UMass Dartmouth ranks right at the national average in voter turnout. Although, since 2018 UMass Dartmouth has been more active in engaging student voters by hosting ballot question discussion panels in 2018, working with our local officials to bring the polls to campus in 2016, adopting TurboVote, more than doubling voter turnout from 16.9% in 2014 to 34.6% in 2018, and earning the Silver Campus award with the All In challenge. We know that turnout of less than 50% is unacceptably low for a democracy to thrive which is why we want to ensure we create a usable plan to increase turnout in the 2020 election.

Civic and community engagement are values that are deeply rooted at the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth. Led by the Leduc Center for civic engagement, UMass Dartmouth students and faculty are involved in a range of civic engagement projects at international, national, state and local levels, while maintaining partnerships with a large number of southcoast community based organizations and k-12 schools. Our SouthCoast Serves collaborative of over 50 partners meets on a monthly basis to strengthen service and volunteerism in the region. Each year the university documents growing numbers of service hours that peaked last year at 271,149. However, historically GOTV efforts have been a hodgepodge of decentralized efforts led by various groups including; The Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group (MassPIRG) which has a strong presence on campus that has long been involved in encouraging students to vote through their New Voters Project campaign. In the last 10 years, MASSPIRG has registered over 40k students to vote in MA and made 100k GOTV contacts. The Student Government Association, Leduc Center for Civic Engagement, Frederick Douglass Unity House and the Center for Women, Gender, and Sexuality have also engaged in voter registration efforts over the years. Sunrise Movement is a newer organization operating on campus that prioritizes electoral work through the frame of climate justice issues. They began doing voter registration drives on campus in the fall of 2019. In the spring of 2019 the UMassD Votes Coalition was formed to improve and institutionalize a voting culture on campus. Led by students, with the assistance of the Leduc Center, the coalition brought together students, staff, faculty, and administrators from a variety of departments and majors to ensure that everyone was plugged into GOTV efforts. Spring 2019 was spent bringing together members of campus and creating goals and objectives for the coalition. Fall of 2019 was led by MassPIRG and Sunrise students who registered students to vote and helped draw attention to the presidential primary. Although interrupted, spring of 2020 was centered around creating plans for GOTV in the Fall. Actions included:

- Voter registration by MassPIRG students
- Creation of a logo and a website so that students could easily access resources and information related to voting.
- The crafting of a survey by a faculty member from the Political Science department to better understand what issues mattered the most to students. The survey was released late March-early April so many of the responses were related to COVID-19. However, many students also identified climate change, health care, and student loan debt, as issues that mattered the most to them.
- The Leduc Center for Civic Engagement led an effort to engage various groups on campus including Frederick Douglass Unity House, Center for Women, Gender, and Sexuality and the Sculpture Department on a VOTE public art project.
- Development of an action plan with the Democracy Challenge
- Becoming an Ask Every Student Commitment Campus

According to our National Study of Learning Voting and Engagement (NSLVE) data from 2016 and 2018, UMass Dartmouth is at around the average for all institutions for voter registration (50% and 31%) and mobilization. Breaking down more of our campus demographics, we see that the underclassmen, especially freshmen, are the least engaged (~37% registration rate in 2016). Taking that into consideration, we should target working with First Year programming to reach those students more holistically, such as expanding our work during orientation and strengthening the work with housing. As for the breakdown within our colleges, our focus should work to register and engage students in the Liberal Arts department and students in Business school.

The impact of a national pandemic is not something that we are taking lightly. We know there will be changes to the way our campus community functions in the fall and we intend to incorporate adjustments that keep these expected changes in mind. Digital organizing has become crucial as movements and organizations shift in-person actions to online forums. In acknowledgment that some students face challenges in accessing technology, we want to ensure that we are working to provide students with the resources they need to gain access to information. Similarly, online forums can provide students with free information that can be viewed at any time. COVID-19 has presented an opportunity for us to improve the resources we provide to students and present information in a variety of ways. While these changes will certainly shift our original plans, they will not prevent us from reaching our voter turnout goals.

Overarching Strategy

There are four main tenets of our plan: registration, education, turnout and sustainability. Strong leadership and communication will be essential and underscore the entire plan. Activities described in this section will be coordinated by the coalition leadership team that will meet for weekly GOTV meetings in the Leduc Center for Civic Engagement or via ZOOM from Sept. to Nov. to review and refine plans.

Key to our strategy is the development of a team of 10 student Voting Captains (VCs) that will assist with the implementation of our various actions. VCs will be recruited and trained in August and work in conjunction with the coalition and their designated department on campus. Captains will be expected to join the second half of the GOTV leadership meetings and attend coalition meetings. Vote Captains will be responsible for sharing information about voter registration, deadlines, and the process of how to vote as well as contacting at least 100 students across campus and ensuring they have the information they need to register and turnout to vote. These students will be leaders at UMass Dartmouth tasked with general outreach to on-campus partners as well as local community members, creating programs or tabling events to share information about voting, and working on visibility tactics such as creating posters, videos, or taking photos. The role of these VCs will also include maintaining communications with various departments and attending centralized events that focus on voting and ballot questions. VCs will include students from: the Honors Department, Sustainability Department (preferably a Green Navigator), Leduc Center, Sunrise Movement, Unity House, CWGS, Political Science Association, Student Government Association, Student Athletics Association, Resident's Life and 2 or more students from MassPIRG. Depending on the presence of these organizations at UMass Dartmouth at the time, a student from PHENOM and the Labor Education Center would also be encouraged to become a VC. VCs may be eligible for work study, internship credit or service hours and must commit to spending 3 - 9hrs/ week attending meetings, training, actions and recruiting other student volunteers. VCs trainings will include discussions about:

- The vision about why we are focusing on relational organizing and what relational organizing is
- Goals and how to succeed in achieving our vision
- Best practices for reaching out to students
- How to communicate the story of why voting is important
- How to tell your own story and relate it back to an issue more relevant to voting
- Logistics of voting
- How to put on a successful event
- How to sustain GOTV strategies

The method of relational organizing will be used in hopes of creating more dialogue about voting on campus and engaging students in more political activities while expanding our outreach to students through conversation. We want to be able to provide students with ample resources and information so that they stay engaged. The VCs could also organize Voter Recruitment drives in the residence halls, reach out to RAs, run the social media, reach out to professors, and work on video projects.

Additional Actions/Issues

Ballot Access

Currently, UMass Dartmouth is the only precinct within Dartmouth without its own polling location, meaning students must find time to get to the day-of polling location which would be at least a 10 minute excursion assuming students have a car. In 2018 shuttles were provided, but students are less likely to go off campus to vote than they would be if a polling station was on campus. The Dartmouth Clerk’s Office is generally the only early voting location. Once in the past the Clerk's Office has allowed an early voting location on campus. Getting a department on campus, previously Public Affairs, to pay for transportation to the same day polling locations is helpful for students without access to their own cars.

Barriers

Currently, the Dartmouth Town Clerk, who is responsible for voting, isn't receptive to adding a polling location as in 2016. The Clerk is accountable directly to town meeting members making this situation complicated to change. However, students registered to vote in Dartmouth have the ability to become a Town Committee member. These members have voting power during Town Meetings and student presence in this committee would foster a better relationship between the Town Administration and UMass Dartmouth Students.

The coalition also does not currently have its own source of funding. We are working on getting funds from SGA and other departments on campus, but having a budget would be helpful for printing materials.

Registration

Registration Drives

Host registration drives at least twice a week run by student groups and Vote Captains. These drives would happen in popular locations on campus such as Campus Center, the library, the freshmen quad, and CVPA, SENG, and LARTS as classes switch.

RA Programs

Work with Residential Assistants to implement voter registration into their mandatory programming and floor events. Encouraging at least one RA from each building to work with us on a program and/or poster for their residents would improve education about voting among students and improve visibility for our voter registration events.

Class Raps

Student groups often go into classrooms in the first five minutes of classes to give an overview of their organization in an attempt to recruit students. Using this time to talk about the importance of voting and then registering them with TurboVote would be effective.

TurboVote

Our campus pays to use the services of TurboVote. We should use computers at campus sponsored events to register students to vote. We can also send out the link to our TurboVote through campus wide emails. We also plan to include TurboVote pop-ups on myCourses and possibly the UMass Dartmouth Website.

Education

Kitchen Table Talks

These style events would be more informal discussion meetings between different student groups where they are. The purpose would be to get a general feel of what the student campus community knows and feels about upcoming elections. These conversations could be held by the ten vote captains as a way to recruit more members to the coalition as well as a way to engage more students in discussions about the election.

Town Hall Forums

These events would be larger gatherings where invited guests (students/professors/outside campus guests) would answer student questions on either a specific political issue or a range of political issues. In 2018 a panel of scholars discussed the ballot questions. Encouraging professors or professionals to discuss the ballot questions for 2020 would give students an opportunity to learn more about what they will be voting on besides the candidates.

Debate Watch Parties

The coalition will organize debate watch parties. Food could be used to entice student participation. Faculty should talk about what to expect and see beforehand. Asking professors to give extra credit for students who attend could help our activities be more accessible and inclusive for students who are not eligible to vote. Watch parties are also a great way to encourage collaboration between coalition partners. In 2018 one organization paid for pizza while another organization hosted a raffle and asked the audience questions about the election.

Turnout

Art Sculptures

The coalition prides itself on working with different student groups. One of those collaborations was working with art professors to develop sculptures relating to voting to put on the campus quad/around different campus buildings. These act as a reminder to vote. Posting QR codes on these sculptures where students can register to vote is another way to make VR easier. The sculptures we currently have were created and decorated by specific student groups that connected the issues their group cared about with voting in a visual representation. The two examples below were created by our Center for Women, Gender, and Sexuality and our Frederick Douglass Unity House.

Campus Wide Emails

There are many ways in which students can receive campus wide emails. Our Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs sends out two ICYMI emails every week in which she highlights events going on for each half of the week. We will ask for information regarding VR and events to be sent out in these emails when events occur. Deadlines for VR and Election days will also be included in these emails as well as Early Voting dates. Students also receive daily emails from the University and we can ask for the same information to be included in some of those emails. Administrators and student leaders like the SGA President, and Chancellor also have the ability to send out emails to all students and their endorsement of our initiatives might be more influential than being a section on an ICYMI email. Finally, there are many groups and organizations on campus that have email lists of active students and as we connect with more groups we can ask them to remind their students about voting deadlines.

Website

A UMassD Votes website was constructed by a group of students as part of their Senior Project. The website includes the link to turbovote, a calendar of events, information about how and where to vote, nonpartisan resources that will provide students with more information about the candidates and the ballot questions, and more.

Graphics

Students from different groups across campus have made a multitude of posters and graphics to share with the rest of the campus community. A team of students in a graphics class also created a logo for the coalition. The logo will be used on the website and all posters and information moving forward. A flow chart will also be made in order to help students better understand the path towards casting their ballot starting with voter registration and moving towards choosing between going to the polls to vote and voting by mail. Posters with events or election times will be put up in main campus buildings, residential buildings, and dining areas especially during election seasons.

Teach-In and Student Survey

One of our faculty members, Professor Roscoe, created a survey that was distributed to students in order to better understand the issues that students care about when it comes to voting.

Unfortunately, it was distributed in the week of COVID-19 so response rates were low.

However, those that did respond indicated that climate change, health care, and student loan debt were the issues most pressing to them. We plan to use the results from this survey to show professors the connection between topics they cover in class and voting. We are still planning to ask professors to talk about why voting is important in the context of the class they teach for either part of a class period or an entire class period the day before an election or on an election day.

Shuttles

The coalition will work with the public affairs department to offer shuttle services to the day-of polling location at least every hour. This service has previously been approved and paid for by the Public and Government Affairs Department on campus. This administrator has contacted the shuttle service and sent shuttles to and from campus center to the polling station at Bible Church.

Get Out The Vote Campaign -

All Get Out The Vote (GOTV) actions will also include all the previous measures in the Turnout section. MASSPIRG and Sunrise should utilize their data lists of students to send personalized emails and texts to remind students about election times and information, keeping in mind that students who have signed up with TurboVote will already be receiving a lot of this information.

This data can be collected from voter registration drives (we are legally allowed to database this information minus their social security/drivers license). These emails and texts should go out the day before and of an election.

Institutionalization and Campus Commitments

One of the important goals of our Voting Coalition is the formalization and institutionalization of the UMassd Votes coalition to ensure the creation of a voting culture on campus. Presenting our action plan with the following entities to request their endorsement.

The Office of the Chancellor

We plan to present our Action Plan to the Chancellor and get his endorsement and commitment to support by encouraging students, faculty and staff to also endorse the plan. We will work with him to announce the plan and ways to work together moving forward.

Town Gown Committee

The town Gown Committee was created to strengthen the partnership between UMass Dartmouth and the Town of Dartmouth. We will share our Action Plan with this committee in recognition that voting is something that must be done by the entire Dartmouth community to encourage real change.

Academic Departments

The coalition understands that voting is not just a political issue that pertains to students of a singular major. By interacting with faculty and students of all majors we want to ensure that students understand how voting relates to every aspect of society and can be connected to any major or department.

Communications

Social Media Strategy

Social media should primarily focus on instagram. Instagram has the highest potential to garner students attention because they are more willing to “follow back” on this platform. Visual media is also very appealing versus text.

Increasing Followers

An effective way to gain followers is to “follower crawl” through other accounts that pertain to the UMass Dartmouth community such as @umdstudenttrustee or @umassdstudents. Following every account that follows these accounts will increase the likelihood of a follow back. After a few days you can expect any account that has not already followed you back will not. Now, we should unfollow any account that does not follow us back, then follow them again to give them another notification about our account. To do this unfollow/follow strategy a periphery follower management app should be downloaded and used. This unfollow then follow is especially potent if we do it the same day as an important post (i.e: a post on Monday about the Election on Tuesday).

Increasing Engagement

Generally, photos, as compared to graphics, tend to perform better. Mixing the two is fine as long as they tend more towards being photos with light graphics.

Posts that encourage students to repost it to their story are effective. The post becomes sort of a badge to be displayed (i.e: a post stating “I’m voting because _____”). Encouraging reposts from the personal networks of the students involved in the coalition can help spur an organic virality.

Using Instagram “stories” and polls almost every day to keep followers aware of the coalition's existence. We can message any people who answer affirmatively to our polls to recruit them to volunteer (if we need volunteers).

Model Framework

Three weeks before an important event (like an election) we should begin posting a general reminder graphic. Posting this same graphic every week at the same time until the event will increase our followers awareness of the event. As the event becomes closer we should increase the frequency of posts to at least one main post every day.

Potential Media Campaigns

- “Why I Vote” videos
- “Why I Vote” Instagram photo fill in, “I’m voting because _____”

We are also looking to create videos from students in multiple majors of students discussing the intersection between the things they learn in their major and voting. Once these videos have been created we will ask faculty members to share the videos with their students as a lead-in to a conversation about the importance of voting. This can also be done with student athletes expressing why they vote and then sharing this with the rest of the campus.

Reporting

Our coalition will send daily and weekly numbers to a central recording member to track our progress (voter registrations, GOTV contacts, and who/what lets us come to make announcements). In addition, we will continue to register our work with NSLVE to get final numbers for turnout and registration rates. The Leduc Center will lead this effort. Similarly, we will be posting our Action Plan and NSLVE data on the website. The Action Plan will also be shared with our Chancellor and all coalition members to ensure that everyone is onboard with our plans.

Evaluation

We will evaluate our work in relation to the goals and strategies we set in this civic engagement plan during the weekly leadership meetings and our monthly meetings, we will access the numbers we track and adjust our tactics in the moment.

After election day passes, we will also host one final coalition meeting to provide a discussion over the entire civic engagement plan. We will evaluate ourselves using the SWOT method of Strengths, Weaknesses, Opportunities, and Threats to best understand how to improve for the next election cycle.

Our coalition will continue to meet, albeit not as frequently, after November as the NSLVE data comes in and we discuss other long term civic priorities.
