

University of North Florida's Constitution Day Contests

1. Americans (and their Constitution) often assert values such as liberty and equality, morality and democracy, social justice and the will of the people. Yet sometimes these values do not perfectly align, and in some cases may even conflict; to attain one may require sidelining, undermining, or even sacrificing another. Which such value is most foundational for others in order to attain a healthy constitutional system of government? Why so?
2. "Show us rather than tell us what the Constitution means to you."
3. Art is Everything: Activism Art Call with the prompt "Speak up and show us what you are passionate about by creating art that is meaningful to you to inspire change for a chance to influence others." The show was juried by art students.
