Take action

There are many different types of actions that you can help campaigns with.

Text a friend

Some actions will ask you to tell your friends about a cause or candidate. Statistically, reminding your friends to vote is the single most effective way of getting more people to vote.

Report back on a conversation

Some actions will ask you to go out street canvassing or have a chat with someone at an event or gathering and let them know how the conversation went. Using their first and last name and the state or zip code they live in, you can look them up on the national voter file to see if they are registered to vote. Either way, you can fill out a report from the campaign on if you think they’ll be a supporter.
